

AT VERONA EXHIBITION CENTRE WITH LEGNO&EDILIZIA IN 2015

One of the most important future events at Verona Exhibition Centre is the ninth Legno&Edilizia international exhibition on the use of wood in building. The four-day biennial fair will take place in February 2015. There will be approximately 150 Italian and international companies present in 15,000 m² of exhibition area spread over two pavilions. Exhibitors from Austria, Germany, Italy, Poland, the Czech Republic and Switzerland have already signed up for places. For builders, construction firms, designers and associated companies, the professional event in Verona provides an invaluable opportunity to see the latest international offerings, allowing them to plan their spending on new processing, product and systems technology.

Wood is playing a bigger and bigger role in the Italian construction scene, thanks in part to the growing use of green housing and energy saving techniques. Professional visitors to Verona exhibition centre will find an entire fair devoted to the field, which has always prospered in Northern Europe and North America. Meanwhile, the exhibitors know that there will be large numbers of diligent buyers in attendance: there were 20,000 professional visitors in 2013.

Along with the exhibition itself, technical discussions, conventions and practical demonstrations of wood processing equipment in use will be some of the highlights of the event, which can also count on the expertise of a number of partner universities. There are 13 categories of products and services on show at Legno&Edilizia: timber and semi-finished products; machinery and tools; frameworks; structural woodwork; wooden houses; flooring, ceilings, staircases and panelling; security systems; roofing; door and window frames; glues, varnishes and paints; fastening systems; design firms; imports and distribution.
